From the Pastor's Desk

My dear Parishioners,

Peace activist John Dear, SJ, tells of a five-week retreat to the Holy Land he made before entering the Jesuit novitiate. He was at the site where Jesus delivered the Sermon on the Mount. He prayed inside the Church of the Beatitudes then walked outside on to the balcony which surrounded the church. Lifting his eyes to the blue sky he asked God for a sign, promising to live the Beatitudes himself. Just then was a sonic boom from two Israeli jets as they swooped down from the sky and headed straight toward him. The jets were on their way to drop bombs on the Israeli-Lebanon border. Stunned by the swift and powerful response to his prayer, Dear resolved to dedicate the rest of his life to promoting peace and justice and living out the teachings of today's Gospel.

Today's gospel is St. Luke's version of what we usually call the Sermon on the Mount, which is in St. Matthew's Gospel, and which contains what we usually call the eight Beatitudes. The word "beatitude" is based on a Latin word that means something like "fortunate and therefore happy." Over the years of our Christian history, they've caused a lot of discussion about what Jesus really meant by them. Whole books have been written about them. They seem to reverse the normal order of things. "Blessed, fortunate, and happy" because you're poor or hungry or weeping? But then, Jesus frequently reverse the normal order of things. The CROSS is the prime example, at one time a symbol of a disgraceful death...now...a symbol of love, victory, and a rising to new and glorious life.

So, trust that Jesus was speaking the truth and think about your past experiences. When has not getting or having something you wanted been perhaps the best thing that could have happened? When had being hungry-doing without something– been a good lesson for you? When have you grown and become better and stronger and wiser because of something that made you cry at the time? We may not have felt blessed at the time. But we were.

Sincerely,

Father Ed
