From the Pastor's Desk

My dear Parishioners,

Today we hear the wonderful story of Zacchaeus, the tax collector. Since he was quite a short guy, he climbed a sycamore tree, just to get a glimpse of Jesus. There was something about Jesus that made Zacchaeus risk his reputation, and his reputation was changed in a wonderful way.

Jesus told him to come down, because Jesus was going to his house right away. God's never-ceasing love had come to that home because Zacchaeus had opened himself to Jesus and a new way of life and found wholeness in that new life.

This lesson is applicable to all of us. If we are open to seeking Jesus and strive to get as close as possible to him, we are going to find that we, too, can be transformed. The challenge today then is this: Are we willing to risk everything as Zacchaeus did, in order to find ourselves enveloped in the love of God, who waits so patiently for all, to lay our lives in our hands.

What does that mean? Can you let go of the anger and bitterness you have held toward someone in your circle of friends or family? Can you forgive yourself for an action that has haunted you for years? Is it possible to let God's mercy and love flow through you to another person who desperately needs to know that God cares for him? Then you too pass that same mercy and love unto others.

Sincerely,

Father Ed
